

Kitsap Business | In Brief

June 11, 2006

Launches Product

DIGITSAVER, a new Port Orchard-based company, recently launched the digitsaver™ pinch guard at the 2006 Juvenile Products Manufacturing Association International Show in Orlando, Fla. A patent is pending for the plush, doughnut-shaped pinch protector with an animal head which attaches to any door knob. It sticks out into the door jam to protect children's fingers from being pinched or injured due to closing doors. It will be distributed in 10 Eastern European countries later this summer. It retails for $6.99 and may be ordered at (360) 440-7550.